Wan-Chien Chiu

Wan-Chien obtained my PhD degree in Universidad Carlos III de Madrid (in Spain) in June 2014 and have been devoted to the research side of my graduate training. My dissertation examines the risk propagated in the financial sector and explores the transmission channel of the impact of financial crises from the financial sector to the real economy. After PhD, I had been employed as the Assistant Professor at University of Glasgow (in UK) from August 2014 to July 2017. My research scope at this time had expanded to the investigation of corporate debt maturity structure and bank loan contracting. My current researches also investigate the effect of trademark protection on bank loan costs; the effect of corporate social responsibility on bank lending behavior; and textual analysis in Finance and Accounting by looking at analyst reports.

During the most recent 5 years, I have 10 publications (2 publications at MOST A Tier-1 journals; 4 publications at MOST A Tier-2 journals; 4 publications at MOST B+ journals). I have been engaging in effective international research collaborations for several years, as evidence in my excellent publication outcome. I have also demonstrated an upward trajectory in terms of research quality at internationally excellent standard. My recent research teams include academics in USA, UK, Hong Kong, and Taiwan. I have won two Best Research Award in the international conferences. (1) Best Paper Award, 2018 TFA International Conference (Taipei, Taiwan); (2) Best Research Paper Award in the 23rd SFM conference.
